

Prepare for the Unexpected: Continuity Planning and Behavior

[April 2010 – New York, NY] – Steven Crimando, Managing Director of XBRM, was interviewed for Financial Management Network (FMN) by SmartPros to discuss best practices in crisis situations, and the similarities between the current global financial crisis, pandemic disease outbreaks, and various types of sudden and ongoing crises. In this interview, Steven Crimando will reveal some core concepts used during natural disasters which can also be helpful tools used to cope with a variety of crisis situations. This is an informative segment on how businesses can also incorporate these best practices in developing and updating their organizational resilience plans and enable themselves to not only prepare for crises, but deal with the emotional aftermath of traumatic events.
